

Challenges in Probability and Statistical Mechanics

June 13-17, 2022
Technion, Haifa, Israel

Speakers

Michael Aizenman – Princeton

Omer Angel - UBC

Noam Berger – TU Munich

Marek Biskup – UCLA

Alessandra Cipriani – University College London

Barbara Dembin – ETH Zurich

Amir Dembo – Stanford

Jean-Dominique Deuschel – TU Berlin

Gady Kozma – Weizmann Institute of Science

Sébastien Ott – University of Fribourg

Jiwoon Park – Cambridge

Gábor Pete – Alfréd Rényi Institute of Mathematics & Budapest University

Eviatar Procaccia – Technion – I.I.T.

Pierre-François Rodriguez – Imperial College London

Wioletta Ruszel – University of Utrecht

Jacob Shapiro – Princeton

Barry Simon – Caltech

Yinon Spinka - UBC

Vincent Tassion – ETH Zurich

Balint Toth – University of Bristol & Alfréd Rényi Institute of Mathematics

Amanda Turner – University of Leeds

Daniel Ueltschi – University of Warwick

Yvan Velenik – University of Geneva

Simone Warzel – TU Munich

Ofer Zeitouni – Weizmann Institute of Science

Organizing committee:

Nick Crawford - Technion

Ron Peled - Tel Aviv University

Ron Rosenthal - Technion

Location:

The lectures will take place at 232, Amado Mathematics Building,
Technion

This is a Research workshop of the Israel Science Foundation. The conference is partially funded by: The Deputy Senior Vice President of the Technion and CMS Technion. This conference is also supported by the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme (grant agreement Transitions No. 101002733).

